Megatrends with Jim Puplava - June 19th

By Catherine Austin Fitts

This week on The Solari Report, Jim Puplava, founder and host of the Financial Sense Newshour at Financial Sense, joins me for a discussion of “Seven Megatrends that Will Reshape the Next Decade” – a new overview by Jim and his team that echoes many of the themes you heard in our Annual Wrap Up.

From The Blog

Jim is an optimist about America's future and always does a great job of documenting the case for optimism. As change accelerates, there is a lot of coverage of negatives. If you spend time on Jim's website, you know that he has researched and given airtime to all of the obstacles and risks ahead. Which is to say, Jim is a realistic optimist who helps us step back, assess, and identify the areas and places which offer opportunity.

One of the megatrends that Jim mentions is the revolution in education. In Let's Go to the Movies, I invite you to watch the single most popular TED speech ever given, Sir Ken Robinson on creativity and education. It is a delightful reminder of what is possible in a world where education helps people enjoy and develop their creativity.

Talk to you Thursday!
