The Meaning of Negative Interest Rates with Don Coxe - June 4th

“Six years of ingesting financial heroin has doubtless anesthetized most bond investors. They may be about to experience a pain they have not felt in decades.”

~ Don Coxe

level in global capital markets through every recession and boom since the onset of stagflation in 1972. He has worked on the buy side and the sell side in many capacities and has managed both bond and equity portfolios, served as CEO, CIO and as Research Director.

Don leads the Global Commodity Strategy investment management team – a collaboration of Coxe Advisors and BMO Global Asset Management. He is advisor to the Coxe Commodity Strategy Fund and the Coxe Global Agribusiness Income Fund in Canada, and the Virtus Global Commodity Stock Fund in the US.

In our discussion on the Solari Report this week, Don reviews the nine sovereign bond credits that are now trading at negative interest rates at maturities from 1 to 10 years. He explains that there is literally is no precedent for what the bond market is about to experience as a result of negative interest rates. He reminds us, “Not only is there nobody managing money today who was managing Treasury Bonds back in the Kennedy administration, there are very few who were managing bonds in the bear market under Nixon.”

Other thoughts from our discussion this Thursday:

- When you find out that pre-Napoleonic war yields were higher than current bond yields, you realize that we do not have precedence. If you open the text books, you will not find anything that will prepare you for what has to happen as we go to “normal” yields.
- We’re talking about tremendous dislocations in a huge pile of assets that will send all the other markets in different directions.

- It is possible that people at the Fed may be saying: “If it’s going to happen when I’m here, then I’m going off the FOMC next year.”
- Although there will be opportunities, the biggest opportunities are likely to include equities (versus bonds).

The Trans Pacific Partnership Agreement and Trade Promotion Authority - Available for the Public!

A note from Catherine Austin Fitts: As the Obama Administration moves forward aggressively with the TPP, I felt it was important for Solari Report subscribers to have an introduction and overview of the basic facts and issues involved. After much searching, I could not find such a presentation, so I asked attorney Carolyn Betts to prepare one for the Solari Report. As always, Carolyn has done an excellent job of giving us an overview of a highly complex legal agreement – one that could have a profound impact on our work and lives. The fundamental issue at hand is whether the nations involved in TTP are going to be sovereign nations or whether we are going to introduce global government by using trade agreements to override national, state and local laws – often without the involvement, agreement and concurrence of the authorizing legislators – and do so in a format that gives large corporations extraordinary rights, making them superior in legal powers to people and governments.

By Carolyn Betts, Esq.

What is the Trans Pacific Partnership Agreement?

The Trans Pacific Partnership Agreement is a proposed regional international trade agreement that has been under negotiation since 2008 among Pacific Rim nations, currently numbering the following twelve:

Australia, Brunei, Canada, Chile, Japan, Malaysia, Mexico, New Zealand, Peru, Singapore, United States, Vietnam.

Highlights from Our 1st Quarter Wrap Up: Planet Debt

The dominant theme in our Annual Wrap up in January was Planet Equity. In our 1st Quarter Wrap Up, we explore a related part of the global balance sheet: Planet Debt.

The systematic harvesting of countries around the globe has been ongoing since WWII – whether by encouraging countries to issue debt, particularly dollar denominated debt, or to buy US debt. It is not surprising that some of the biggest buyers of US Treasury securities are nations that have had a US military presence since WWII. Nor is it surprising that there is a relationship between large military expenditures and high debt levels.

What has evolved on planet earth is the ultimate financial entrapment operation in which one set of players can:

- Create fiat money and lend at zero expense
- Maintain an information advantage that violates the laws related to material omissions in financial transactions, fraudulent inducement and predatory lending
- Engage in dirty tricks that impact the borrower's ability to pay
- Legislate laws and regulations that make it profitable to lend to people who fail and cannot pay back their debt principal

On Thursday, April 23, the Solari Report team will publish our First Quarter Wrap Up, complete with a web presentation including graphs and charts designed to “pull back the curtain on this important subject.

I will be covering:

- How global debt is an essential part of the central banking-warfare model
- Debt and the “Databeast”
- Global and domestic blowback resulting from debt
- Mandating markets for monopolists
- Q1 News stories and trends
- Q1 Financial markets
- Where it’s all going

Highlights from Our Last Report

Australian entrepreneur Mark Dansie travels the world evaluating new technology claims, implementing the chosen few and reporting on his website Revolution Green. He specializes in magnetic motor and HHO gas evaluations, but also reviews a wide range of energy and related technologies. I met Mark at the Global DEW conference and was impressed at his command of the practical issues involved in bringing a new technology to market.

Mark's catch phrase is "show me the data." Previously, Mark studied Industrial Design at the Adelaide School of Arts, managed several commercial businesses at an Australian University including the Press, Communications and Internet company and served as CEO of a regional public housing company in Australia.

Key points to consider from our discussion:

- Patents can be your best friend or your worst enemy
- There's first to market and there's fast to market
- VC's always want control. License the technology so that you control the IP – don't sell the IP
- The best approach is to raise capital and be quiet
- Make friends with the people who may oppose you – cut them into the deal where you can
- Consider making your profits on the application of technology rather than on the technology itself

I asked Mark to join me on the Solari Report after getting a number of requests on how to handle the practical challenges of launching breakthrough technology projects. He was in the Philippines when we spoke and our call reception was less than ideal. We will get a printed transcript up for this report as soon as possible in the hopes that reading is easier.
