PRODUCTIVITY, PROSPERITY & THE POPSICLE INDEX

2nd Quarter Wrap Up - Productivity, Prosperity & the Popsicle Index - July 07th

To

2nd Quarter Wrap Up: Four Parts Throughout July

Our 2nd Quarter Wrap Up will be presented throughout July in four parts:

- News Trends & Stories: For the next two weeks we will chew through the top news trends and stories with Dr. Joseph Farrell. This coming week in Part I, we will look at Economy and Financial Markets and Geopolitics, including a serious discussion of Brexit. Brexit is a clearly the story of the 2nd Quarter.
- The following week in Part II, Dr. Farrell and I will cover the Science and Technology and The Big Questions. Make sure to check our web presentation for the complete listing of News Trends & Stories for the 2nd Quarter.
- Financial Market Roundup: In the third week, we will combine a written Blockbuster Chartology from master technician Rambus with Catherine's Equity Overview. Make sure to check our web presentation for the complete round up of financial market charts on June 30.
- Productivity, Prosperity & the Popsicle Index: Finally, our big theme. How do we blast through the Orwellian BS about productivity coming out of folks like Alan Greenspan? How do we get down to what needs to be done to integrate dazzling innovation with real human productivity and prosperity? We will post our discussion of the "real deal" on productivity and prosperity in our final week.

We Never Give Up!

At Solari, we never give up on the notion that genius can serve humanity as a whole. Indeed, our calculations indicate that the monopolists will be wealthier when it does. It's simple – free markets create far more wealth than fascism. Secrecy designed to protect national security ultimately creates privileges which destroys the very society the secrets were meant to protect.

As I have said many times before, now is not the time in the history of our people for a failure of imagination!

We will have an abbreviated Money & Markets next week, so post or e-mail your questions for Ask Catherine.

Talk to you on Thursday!

Catherine Austin Fitts

Highlights from Last Week - Haiti & Disaster Capitalism with Dr. Dady Chery

In 2010, following a major earthquake, US and UN troops invaded and occupied Haiti. Although the devastation from the earthquake was great, the occupation and asset stripping by corporate and philanthropic interests were far worse. Haiti may be the worst case yet of disaster capitalism. If recent allegations put forth by investigative reporters are true, the Clintons’ efforts to return to the White House are financed by Haitian lives. Based on Dr. Chery’s research, few of the billions raised by the Clintons for Haitian relief have helped the earthquake victims.

Born and raised in Haiti and now living in the United States, Dr. Dady Chery has documented what has happened to Haiti since the 2010 earthquake in her remarkable book We Have Dared to be Free: Haiti’s Struggle Against Occupation. Dr. Chery’s efforts to document events in Haiti are a remarkable contribution to our understanding of the use of disasters to compromise national and individual sovereignty. Haiti is a prime example of organized crime creating social inequality and lowering global productivity.
