Fund Have a Deep State Drain?"

It's time to change the narrative on pension funds. From 2009-2012, we funded over \$20 trillion for the bank bailouts. There is \$21 trillion missing from DOD and HUD since fiscal 1998. Trillions more dollars have gone for quantitative easing. And more dollars are lent to big banks at the Fed window at interest rates lower than 1% interest. And we can afford lower tax rates and bigger military budgets.

At the same time, pension funds are underfunded and there is – or so we hear – a crisis. Despite the laws and regulations to keep pension fund properly funded, we are told they are not fully funded. And, depending on what estimates you read, we are told we can not possibly find a few trillion to address shortfalls in the pension and retirement systems. And indeed, retirees are beginning to experience cuts in their benefits.

I struggle to find the logic in here. We can gift or lend $20 trillion to private banks to which we have no legal or contractual obligation to do so and to which approximately 80% of the population is opposed, but we cannot fund legal and contractual obligations to our own citizens. Why?

There are other riddles in the official pension funds narrative.

Countries such as Norway, Denmark and the Netherlands can manage changing societies and financial markets, can make reforms, and can take actions that deliver solvent retirement systems. Why the government which runs the worlds reserve currency do the same?

Some corporations, hedge funds and private equity investors are promoting products, services and activities that seriously harm our environment, general population and economy. Why are pension funds financing them? For example, why are pension funds financing companies that create expensive addictions because they make money for that company? Surely large pension funds have the strategic breadth to understand that creating an addicted population will detract from long-term performance.

Finally, circumstantial evidence suggests that boards and trustees do not fully control pension fund policies, which are heavily influenced by powerful outside forces. The governance of pension funds has been compromised. If the integrity of pension fund governance is compromised, are investments and returns also compromised? Do pension funds, like so many other institutions, have a deep state drain?

My goal is to ask questions about pension funds that can help us bring real insight into what is happening to us.

"No Money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law; and a regular Statement and Account of the Receipts and Expenditures of all public Money shall be published from time to time." ~ARTICLE I, SECTION 9, CLAUSE 7, UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION

[CAF Note: The Solari Report is pleased to present the first report in a new series that we have commissioned on U.S. Constitutional and legislative provisions that relate to the enforcement of federal financial laws. The existing levels of $21 trillion of undocumented adjustments in federal accounts (and counting) have surpassed official levels of outstanding U.S. debt. This underscores the importance of the enforcement of financial laws for our mutual global future. Consequently, this series is open to the public.]

Highlights from Last Week - 2017 Annual Wrap Up Triple Header - Equity Overview, Rambus Chartology & Precious Metals

This week on The Solari Report, I will present the Annual Equity Overview for 2017 and the Rambus Chartology Annual Review. In addition, Franklin Sanders of The Moneychanger will join me to review the precious metal markets in 2017 and the outlook for 2018.

In 2017, equity markets outperformed the general economy – by a lot. The question is – how long can this last? How long can investors achieve returns that are significantly superior to returns to labor, taxpayers, and the general economy – and do so without significant increases in productivity? Clearly tax reform will help as corporate tax contributions continue to decline as a percentage of government budgets.

Gold prices also outperformed, with gold producing its first double digit returns since 2010.

A review of global equity markets and our annual scenarios for 2018 is an appropriate lead into the following week theme on pensions funds. I ask the question, “Does Your Pension Fund Have a Deep State Drain?”
